

Explanations for Organizers of Invited Sessions

There are two possible ways of organizing an Invited Session.

1. The session organizer (or organizers) personally invites the prospective participants of the session, collects the extended abstracts of their contributions, and is responsible for their qualification. The participants will not be subject to the qualification procedure by the Program Committee.

The organizers of such sessions are asked to send the final list of participants to the Organizing Committee, not later than March 12. The respective extended abstracts should be submitted by the authors or by the session organizer, also by March 12.

2. The organizer only proposes the title and specifies the topics of the invited session. The participants of the session are selected from all the contributors of extended abstracts that already have been accepted by the Program Committee, and their abstracts fit the scope of the session. They are invited by the session organizer who would arrange the final list of session participants, in cooperation with the Program Committee and Organizing Committee.

The organizers are asked to promote their sessions and encourage their colleagues and coworkers to contribute. If a contributor wishes to take part in a particular invited session, he or she should indicate it to the Organizing Committee.
